WALT perform our own version of the poem Don't.

Can you remember the poem we have been learning off by heart? Practise performing what you have learned so far in the mirror. Watch Michael Rosen's performance again to help you:

Well done for writing your poem yesterday!

Read it back again.

- Can you think of actions for your poem?
- Can you change your facial expressions at different parts of the poem?
- Can you change your voice for different parts of the poem?
  - slower or faster
  - quieter or louder
  - higher or lower

Learn your poem off by heart and perform it to your family, to your toys or to yourself in the mirror. You could even record yourself or create an animation of your poem in Purple Mash.

Learn the last part of the poem

Learn the last verse of the poem off by heart.

Watch the poem sentence by sentence and watch each sentence a few times. Think of some actions for each sentence first and this will help you remember the words. The words are below if you want them to help you.

Remember to:

- think of your own actions
- change your facial expression for different parts of the poem
- change your voice for different parts of the poem

And don't throw fruit at a computer
Don't throw fruit at a computer
Don't what?
Don't throw fruit at a computer
Don't what?
Don't throw fruit at a computer
Who do they think I am?
Some kind of fool?

Challenge:

Are there any rhyming words in the last part of the poem?

Well done for learning the whole poem off by heart! You could add your own part of the poem to the rest of the poem and perform it to your family, teddies or in the mirror.
