WALT: Understand the value of conservation and animal welfare through the work of Jane Goodall

Jane Goodall is a famous primatologist and conservationist who first made headlines around the world with her work 60 years ago.

There is a lot of information about Jane and she is already often looked at historically even though she is still alive and working hard today at age 89.

Research

Your job is to use the amazing reference library that is THE INTERNET to find out about Jane Goodall but instead of just writing down facts and dates (because lets be honest, this of very little value to anyone) I want you to find out what Jane Goodall's beliefs are.

- What does she think about Chimpanzees? Does she think they're just stupid monkeys?
- What does she think about the way humans treat animals and each other?
- What does she think people could do to help animals around the world?
- What does she think the differences and similarities between humans and animals are?

Presentation

You can decide how you present Jane Goodall's beliefs. Some suggestions include:

- A PowerPoint presentation
- A video presentation
- A poster
- A booklet
- Or even just a few well written sentences.

Good Luck!

If you can, please share your work on our Year 5 Padlet page, which you can access using the following link:
